BRIEF/MINI BIOGRAPHY

Rinawati Rohsiswatmo is one of the leading pediatricians in Indonesia. She graduated from Universitas Indonesia in 1998 (pediatrician) and 2008 (consultant in neonatology).

Her concern towards neonatal health drives her to actively participate in several projects and research. In Indonesian Pediatric Society (IPS), she had served as chief of Neonatal Working Group (2004-2014) and editor of Paediatrica Indonesiana (2003 – present). She contributed in Comprehensive Emergency Obstetric and Neonatal Care module, Health Service Programme, and USAID. Her excellent service made her appointed as a member of Presidential Physician Team since 2009.

She is fully committed to save preterm babies, stressing the importance of nutrition care to improve their long term outcomes. Leading IPS Task Force on Newborn Screening, she is now fighting for wider, easier access to neonatal screening in Indonesia. Having years of experience in the field, she hopes to share her ideas and insight with you in APCP 2018.
